

N.C. 12 Update 9/14/2011

When Hurricane Irene sliced through the Outer Banks; it did more than just destroy sections of N.C. 12, south of Nags Head. It severed a lifeline for the people that call North Carolina's coast home. Now, the N.C. Department of Transportation has created a new lifeline — one that connects communities not by land, but by water.